NICOLA PUCCI BIOGRAPHY

Nicola Pucci is a Sicilian artist based in Palermo. Following a degree in Advertising he spent time drawing exercise book covers for a prestigious Italian company, before moving to Rome where he devoted himself to painting. Since 1995 to the current period, his art works have been exhibited internationally. Over the years, Nicola Pucci's style, has caught the attention of personalities from the art world such as the gallery owner Larry Gagosian and the art critics Philippe Daverio, Gianluca Marziani and Vittorio Sgarbi, who have become passionate supporters and collectors of his creations. Pucci boasts a master technique with which he builds his images layer-by-layer with dozens of brush strokes and shadows. Paying remarkable attention to detail, he reworks his canvases multiple times over years until faithfully rendering his unique vision of reality. For Pucci, the process of careful observation results in a new interpretation of reality in which the impossible and possible merge. He combines elements from different sources within a single painting. His canvases depict homogeneous groups of figures, often suspended in space but united in a silent dialogue, a particular gesture that speaks for itself. Dreamlike, theatrical and haunting, Pucci's works are ascribed with an invisible, cathartic energy that is clearly perceivable by our senses. While drawing upon various influences including Surrealism and the art of Francis Bacon, Nicola Pucci nonetheless stands apart from defined contemporary trends or movements.
